NUMBER 191

All the mail batteries have been spiked. The "329" was a horrible mislay for Chairman Barnum.

The Democrats are searching for the man who struck Billy Patterson. English does not make a very good Moses, and mules can't draw voters.

They have howled for a change in Indiana, and they have it, and yet the Democrats are glum.

Republican success means more plows and more cotton in the South, and fewer shotguns and less politics.

The Republican party is solid in principle, solid in earnestness, solid in a candidate, and solid in the North.

United States bonds are worth 30 million dollars more now than they were before the Indiana and Ohio elections.

It is interesting to see how the Republicans are pushing things. It is already uncomfortable for the opposition.

Republicans should not be so cruel as to torment the Democrats with the question, "Have you heard from the '329'?"

Colonel Ingersoll will make nine or ten speeches in New York, before election. These will make several hundred Republican votes.

There are no more Democratic office-seekers going to Governor's Island. There is no use trying to make a contract with a dead duck.

According to Democratic predictions, Ohio will give Garfield 40,000 majority in November. Some Democrats are beginning to talk sensibly.

Mr. Tilden is in a position to smile, and he smiles accordingly. He says that is what the Democrats get by not conceding fraud at Cincinnati.

The official result in Indiana is better than was expected by the most sanguine Republicans. Porter's majority over Landers is officially given at 7,141.

General Garfield's personal probity was too much for the Democratic mud-batteries. The more they fired at it the more Republican votes were made.

The solemn conference of the National Democratic committee held in New York since the Indiana election, did not decide what to do with the Bourbon corpse.

General Hancock says Washington is no good place to live, anyhow, as there is too much malaria, and the people there drink so. Well, that will do for an excuse.

Republicans should be more charitable than to ask a Democrat if he wants to bet on the general result. In times like these the Democratic mind should not be trifled with.

It is not so much the Democratic defeat in Indiana that makes English sorrowful, it is the loss of his $10,000. He'll foreclose on a few more workmen's homes to make up for the loss.

When you buy a corset, No. 40, which cost $2.25, you notice that the clerk will give you the price in a whispering tone. Should any Democrat happen to be around, the sound of $2.25 would set him raving.

There will be no Hancock cabinet; but Tilden says he don't care much any way as it wouldn't look well for a man who was once elected President to afterwards enter the Cabinet. You see Sammy is quite a philosopher.

To show the energy with which the Republicans are carrying on the canvass in this State, it is only necessary to say that in one Assembly district in the Third Congressional district, there will be forty-two meetings held this week.

The result in West Virginia, which reduces the Democratic majority in that State about one half, is the only comfort in store for the Democrats, and that is considered glory enough for a party which has been so long out of meat.

The Rock River conference has adopted resolutions requesting Dr. Thomas to withdraw from the church. But probably Dr. Thomas won't. He is a manly man, a great thinker, a grand pulpit orator, a sincere Christian, and for these reasons will be a thorn in the flesh of the Rock River conference.

Democrats, just look at this. The difference in the prices of twenty-seven leading stocks on the day before the October elections and the day after, was $18,275,200, that is the Republican victory increased the prices in twenty-four hours that amount. This shows what Republican successes are worth in a business point of view.

If there is any one thing that intelligent men hold in utter contempt it is a despicable coward after the fashion of General Hancock. He dare not face the country on the issues announced in the Democratic platform, and in the attempt to save himself from political wreck, his conscience leads him to commit a cowardly act which all fair-minded men will treat with scorn.

The country has not forgotten Thomas Nast's remarkable caricature drawn in 1874 of the New York Tammany ring, in which all the Democratic thieves were in a circle, and each pointing to the other, saying, "I was him." This masterly cartoon will apply to the Democratic managers who are trying to find some one on which to throw the blame for the stinging defeat of last week.

The managers of the Democratic party are still hunting for some one on which to throw the blame of the Indiana disaster. Some say there was too many English mortgages in the canvass and not enough money. Others say there were too much Landers. Still there are a good many others who declare there were too many of Barnum's steel rails and mules worked in the campaign. The sum of the whole matter is there was too much of the principles of Lee and Jackson in the Democratic politics, and a little too much English.

HANCOCK GOING BACK ON HIS PARTY.
General Hancock is a superb letter-writer. That is his chief business. He begins to think the Democratic canvass would lag if he didn't write a few letters. Well that is nearly so. He is no anxious to be on all sides of political questions that he improves every opportunity to spread his opinions on paper. He first sent a glorious dispatch over the supposed Greenback victory in Maine. Then he wrote a letter on rebel claims, promising his party that he would veto every rebel claim passed by Congress were he elected President. The general effect of these were not as Hancock expected. He was ridiculed for the first, and laughed at for the second.

These having failed, he next attempts to get on the Republican side of the tariff question, to trample under foot the platform on which he was nominated, to eat his own words in his letter of acceptance, and knock to the winds the Democratic doctrine of free trade. These facts illustrate the amount and kind of statesmanship General Hancock carries about him. It will be remembered that the New Jersey Democrats "went back," as the saying is, on the National Democratic platform, so far as free trade is concerned. The managers of the party there saw defeat staring them in the face if they were compelled to support the long-cherished Democratic principle of free trade. So United States Senator Randolph wrote Hancock a letter on the subject, and wanted the statesman's views on the tariff. This was a cruel thing for Senator Randolph to do. He laid a nice little trap for an autocrat of Governor's Island, and he was caught.

Chairman Barnum does not seem to have Hancock well in hand. He is tearing Democratic principles all to pieces. He is placing the Democratic party in a unpleasant position, and is making himself the laughing stock of the country. If there is any one thing in the Republican record aside from abolition of slavery, that Republicans glory in, it is the American system of protecting our industries. The Republican party never abandoned this principle, and the Democratic party never supported it. But General Hancock, for fear of losing New Jersey, where the Republican sentiment regarding protection largely prevails, writes to Senator Randolph, that "he is too sound an American to advocate any departure from the general features of a policy that has been largely instrumental in building up our industries and keeping Americans from the competitions of the underpaid labor of Europe."

He is a picture of a Democratic candidate tearing himself completely away from Democratic principles and Democratic platforms. He attempts to steal Republican thunder in order to build up his own chance in New Jersey and some other States where protection is popular. But Hancock can't play the fool with the American manufacturers and American workmen. He may make a consummate hypocrite and a professional demagogue of himself, but he can't hoodwink the intelligent voters. The principles laid down in the Democratic National platform will be taken as the sense of the Democratic party of the United States, and its candidate can't declare one thing and the platform the very opposite.

But Hancock is on the ragged edge, politically. He has the shakes in the knees. He sees the land-writing on the wall. He wants to make it appear that he is all things to all men, and by this course he is covering himself with humiliation and leading his party to certain defeat. He can not serve two masters; but he will only learn that fact when he sees a completely solid North carrying the Republican party to victory.

The following messages were exchanged last Wednesday:
New York, Oct. 13.—Gen. R. G. Ingersoll, Washington, D. C.: Do you recall an old book published a long time ago, called the Bible? Can you find a copy? If so, read the 128th Psalm, verse 2.
MARSHALL JEWELL.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—The Hon. Marshall Jewell: Good for the Bible. I congratulate you on the evidence of your splendid management. The inauguration of Garfield has commenced.
R. G. INGERSOLL.

The passage alluded to reads as follows: "When we were one month filled with laughter, and our tongue with singing; then said they unto the heathen, The Lord hath done great things for them."

SNOW-DRIFTS.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 17.—The wind storm which prevailed here yesterday and last night was the severest ever known in this section, and the barometer was never known so low. The wind was from the South, blowing between sixty and seventy miles an hour. Dispatches from La Crosse say that the storm all along the line of the Northern Minnesota Railway was the severest known for years. Passenger and freight trains along the line were blocked in snow drifts from ten to twenty feet deep, and trains with provisions have been dispatched to their relief from several points. The train which left La Crosse Friday had not been heard from since leaving Felda that night. All the cuts west of Fairmont were filled with snow, packed hard. Reports of cattle, horses, etc., having perished are constantly received, but no loss of human life is yet reported. It is the worst storm ever known in Southern Minnesota and Eastern Dakota, and is still raging.

ASHLAND, Oct. 17.—One of the worst storms that ever visited this section commenced about 2 o'clock last night and terminated at noon today. The loss of lumber and shingles at the Union Mills Company's dock was also very heavy, being some 1,200,000 shingles and about 200,000 feet of lumber.

OHIO.

An Enthusiastic Republican Ratification Meeting.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 17.—The Republicans held a most enthusiastic ratification meeting here last evening in honor of the result in Ohio and Indiana. Music hall was packed, the attendance being about 7,000. Addresses were made by Governor Foster of Ohio; Judge Taft, Senator Matthews, Ben Butterworth, and ex-Governor Cox. Governor Foster, in his address, spoke of General Grant's address at Warren as one of the strong features of the canvass in Ohio. The mention of Grant produced a perfect storm of applause. Governor Foster then requested the audience to rise and give three cheers for the great soldier, which was done with a will. Mr. Foster also spoke in warm terms of Hayes' administration, his remarks being also enthusiastically applauded. A mention of Ingersoll's name was received with hisses mingled with applause. The audience was one of the finest political gatherings seen here for years. Mr. Porter, in his speech, said Indiana would go Republican in November by 25,000 majority.

The Baptist church, in which the meetings were held, was not a quarter large enough to accommodate the vast crowds who wished to see and hear this celebrated pair. They start for San Francisco to-morrow.

THE HORSE DISEASE.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—The horse disease, which first appeared here in a mild form a few days ago, has spread rapidly, and a very large per cent of horses is affected, although the street cars are running as usual, and business has not been impaired. To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I take pleasure in making the following statement: I have been afflicted with a disease of the kidneys for the past two years and have tried numerous remedies with only partial and temporary relief. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure was recommended to me and after taking it the pain and distress left me and I am to-day feeling strong and well. I am perfectly satisfied that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is the medicine needed and can cheerfully commend them to others.

I hereby certify that I have been a practicing physician for twenty-seven years and for many chronic cases in my practice do recommend Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. It was upon my advice that J. W. Stamm, the editor obtained this valuable remedy.

Sumptuous Preparations for a Baby

From the Troy Times.
There is a baby expected in New York that will probably have the richest outfit in the way of clothes ever seen on this side of the great ocean. It is to be the son or daughter, we can't say which, of the Marquis Robert de Saint Marzano, who married the niece of ex Mayor Kingsland, of New York, some years ago. The clothes and other appurtenances cost $3,000. The cradle is of willow, with canopy, covered with draperies, and edged with rich French embroidery and gold. The cradle is of needle-work. The pillow-cases match the sheets. Another set of lawn, with half squares arranged to turn over, of medallions, in Valenciennes inserting and embroidery, and is edged with wide lace. The cost of four sets is $500 while sheets for the bed of the mother are valued at $75. The blankets are exquisitely fine and and are bound with baby blue ribbon, one pair being finished at each corner with large rosettes of blue ribbon and the other pair with neat bows. The elder-down quilt, or outer covering, is of pale blue satin, with embroidered monogram, and edged with the coronet. The borders are silk-stitched and the spread is finished with quiltings on double-box plaits of wide baby blue ribbon. Every robe and slip is arranged in its separate box, and even the undershirts are in sets of themselves, and by casual estimate about two large wagons will be required to transport the articles from the store to the princely residence. The wraps of the infant are superb; these are squares for morning wear, beautifully embroidered, with a cloak and cape for out door wear is of the most costly white satin, with guilloché satin and trimmed with pearl embroidery on white Brussels net, the trimming alone costing $50 a yard. The cap of white damask is finished with quilting of rose point lace.

The sheets for every day service are made with plain centers, tucked borders and satin bands of rich French embroidery and edged with the coronet. We read a day or two since of a mother who sat in New York from starvation. All that corroded her was the undershirt of the mother which she had taken off and wrapped around her little darling to protect from the cold.

Strong Evidence.

I have sold at retail price since the 4th of December last 106 bottles of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, guaranteeing every bottle. I must say that I never sold a medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction. In my own case, with a badly ulcerated throat, after a physician penciling it for several days to no effect, the Electric Oil cured it thoroughly in twenty-four hours, and in ten days cured my children this winter. I never failed to relieve almost immediately.

A Peculiar Case.

[From the Colby (Wis.) Photographer.]
A little over a year and a half ago the little son of Mrs. Timmerman, of Ontario, Vernon county, was taken very suddenly with spasms and convulsions. The best physicians were called but were completely baffled and perplexed by the case. They could not fathom the cause of the convulsions, and in the course of ten days the little fellow suffered through one hundred and twenty convulsions, or "fits," as some called them. The little fellow was brought to this place and put under the care of Dr. Freeman, but only had two or three of these convulsions after arriving at this place. Here Mrs. Timmerman has since remained, and was about a year ago married to Mr. Logare Botter. A few weeks ago the little boy was again taken with convulsions and in twelve days had one hundred and fifty, and the most curious part of the case being that right up to the time and during the time of having the convulsions he would be otherwise seemingly well with the exception of being very weak. One morning he complained, to his mother, of a pin pricking him, and upon passing her hand over his body found the skin of the chest outward, directly over the stomach. Dr. Freeman was immediately sent for, who extracted from that place a piece of fine canalic needle about one inch long. From that time the little fellow began to improve, and in no more signs of convulsions until Sunday evening when eating a small piece of turnip, he was taken again, but medicines were administered and the convulsions stopped at number four, something they were never able to do before. The question now is, has that piece of turnip been in his body nearly two years, and was it the primary cause of the convulsions?

Mrs. W. N. Palmer, 149 Morgan street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: My child was taken Feb. 1st with Croup in its severest form and Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil being the only remedy at hand, I began giving it according to directions and found it gave me immediate relief. I gave three (3) doses and the child rested well the remainder of the night. I have used it in my family for some time with complete success. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

Strange.

The Gold Hill News of September 18th relates the following tale, extraordinary if true, and offers it as a hard nut for mental philosophers to crack: "About midnight, and just after the accident in the Consolidated Imperial mine, I was found by officer Sheehan on my way to the Imperial works. She said she had been awakened just before by her husband, who came all mangled to her bedside and told her he had been killed in the mine. She got up, dressed herself and started to ascertain the truth of what he said. I was indeed only too well convinced was true. Mr. Sheehan went with her to the works, ascertained that there had in reality been a fearful accident, that Mr. Winnie was indeed killed, and then took the trembling little woman to her children and to her desolate home. Mrs. Winnie had not been told of the accident except as above mentioned until after she met officer Sheehan."

—Everybody should hear Hon. J. C. Sloan and Hon. E. W. Keyes to-night. Democrats and Republicans will both hear something of profit, and all who want to hear truth clad in eloquence should be on hand with ears open for hearing and hearts open for conviction.

—John Griffiths, was at Racine lately and attended the auction sale of stock of Richard Richards of the famous Meadowland stud, at Racine. The young stock is very promising.

—Chairman Vankirk, of the Republican County Committee, while in Milwaukee last week, fished for facts about Ingersoll coming here, and pushed Rock county's claims as far as possible, but it seems that Ingersoll has great faith in Rock county's loyalty to the cause, and thinks he is needed elsewhere more; but if possible will try to arrange to put in one speech here before election, though it is by no means a fixed fact that he will be able to do so.

To-day noon while Mrs. F. C. Cook was gone out to dinner, a bold thief gained entrance to the house, by breaking a light of glass, and when she returned she found a strange young man in the front room of the house. She asked him what he wanted, but he did not deign to reply, but walked through the house and out the back door, and made off. She thinks he took an old suit of her husband's clothes, but nothing else seems to be missing.

EQUALIZING TAXES.

The Facts and Figures Arrived at by the Committee, as compared with the Past—An Interesting Showing of the Sales in Rock County for Three Years Past.

As will be seen there have been some marked changes made, and whether the Board, will adopt or amend the report, is of course an open question. The Committee on Equalization was guided in part by the following figures, compiled by the Chairman, L. B. Carle, showing the total sales, as taken from the records, during the past three years, the total assessments on the same property for the same length of time, and the percentage which the assessments bear to the actual sales. By these figures as given below, it appears that there has been a great variance between some of the towns, and that in the cities of Janesville and Beloit the county equalization has been greater in proportion to the actual sales than in the balance of the county. The average per cent of assessment to the sales in the whole county for the three years has been 77.4, and the average per cent in the county outside of the city of Janesville has been 70.5, while in the city of Janesville the per cent has been 75.9, and in Beloit 75.4, and for the city of Janesville for the last year, the assessments have been .83 of the sales.

THE GUARDS' TRIP.

The plans of the Guards for a joyful time in Chicago seem to have gone amiss. On reaching Afton Saturday noon they found that the train which they expected to take there, was delayed, and they were obliged to wait nearly three hours. In consequence of this delay they did not reach Chicago until 6 o'clock. The Rockford Rifles, who expected to meet them at the depot, had been to the Tremont house and had a warm meal, and a general good time, and had gone to the depot of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road. The Guards on their arrival had to take buses and drive hurriedly to that depot in order to catch the train, which they did successfully and proceeded on their journey. They had an excellent chance to test the cold lunches which they took with them, as they had no chance for hot meals from the time they left here Saturday morning until yesterday morning when they had breakfast in Evansville, Ind.

The Guards, Rockford Rifles and Governor's Guards, of Springfield, Ill., were warmly welcomed on their arrival in Nashville. They were expected to arrive at 2 o'clock P. M., but were delayed, and by that hour a crowd of 6,000 people had gathered in the public square to greet them, but the train was delayed and did not reach there until 8 o'clock last evening. There were 3,000 people at the depot, and as the train passed over the bridge, Burrs' Tennessee artillery fired a salute. The military tourists were escorted to the Nicholson house by the Porter Rifles, Rock City Guards, Burns artillery, the Nashville Light Dragoons, and many citizens. A brilliant reception was held there, and a sumptuous banquet served. Under each plate was found a poem of welcome, with the words on the title page "Compliments and greetings of the Porter Rifles to the visiting companies of citizen soldiery of the United States." The Porter Rifles, after the banquet, gave a fine exhibition drill, and about half past eleven the visitors were escorted to the depot where the time waiting for the departure of the train, was taken up with songs first by one company, then another, and the whole winding up with the "Sweet Bye and Bye" and the doxology. They then moved on to Atlanta.

A SUNDAY RUNAWAY.

Yesterday afternoon a horse attached to a democrat wagon in which was seated John Ross, of Johnstown, came up Court street hill on the run. Mr. Ross was pitched from the seat, but hung dangling over the front wheel, until he could hold no longer, and tumbled near Dr. Whiting's place, the wheels passing quickly over him. Two men in a wagon were hurrying after him to give him what help they could, and Mr. Reichwald also came running up. They found Mr. Ross in rather a bad condition, his face bearing some cuts, but still he was conscious and did not think himself badly hurt. The man with the wagon kindly consented to take him to his home though they lived about nine miles the other way, and so wrapping him up in buffalo robes they placed him in the wagon, and in this way he proceeded on his journey. It is to be hoped that his injuries will not prove more serious than they appeared yesterday.

RALLY AT EDGERTON.

To the Editor.

Last evening Babcock's hall was filled to overflowing by the wide-awake Republicans of Fulton, Porter, and Albion, called together to listen to a soul-stirring speech from O. H. Fethers, Esq. The audience contained a sprinkling of Democrats, who listened attentively to whole some truth. Dr. Lord, President of our Garfield club presided. Music was furnished by the Edgerton cornet band.

Mr. Fethers began by reciting the glorious news from Indiana and Ohio; and paid a glowing tribute to the birth, principles and services of the Republican party, as contrasted with modern (so called) Democracy. He also paid his compliments to the candidates of the Confederates, and their allies, and the manner in which he made the feathers fly from the "Superb" Democratic Rooster should be a warning to the whole feathered tribe. He convinced all present that a change in the present policy of our government must prove disastrous to our finances, disturb trade and manufacturing, and result in widespread misfortune to the country. Altogether, the speech was one of the best that an Edgerton audience has listened to in many years.

MARRIED AT ROCKFORD.

LELAND-SOPER.

The following from the Rockford Register of October 16, concerning the marriage of Alexander J. Leland, son of J. A. Leland, of this city, will be read with interest by the many friends of the family here:

Alexander J. Leland and Helen B. Soper were married at the residence of the bride's father, J. E. Soper, East State street, at 6:30 last evening. There were only the intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties at the wedding proper, but from eight to eleven a reception was given when upwards of seventy presented their congratulations and compliments to the newly united.

Rev. W. H. Burns, of Elgin, assisted by Rev. W. A. Spencer, was the officiating clergyman, and the ring ceremony was used. Floral decorations, elegant and attractive lent beauty to the occasion, the most noticeable being a cradle of flowers, and a floral horse-shoe. Presents of great variety for amusement and use were displayed. Mr. and Mrs. Leland will take no trip but will occupy a wing to the paternal mansion which has just been built and made ready for their reception, and where they may be sequestered as easily as two lugs in one rag.

A girl was told to put thyme in the soup, so she put in her mistress's watch, that was the wrong time. If she had had had dyspepsia or indigestion and taken Spring Blossom that would have been the right thing and the right time.
